

True Doodles

Doodles are small representational or abstract drawings that occur whenever a writing instrument and paper are available. Most of us doodle while listening to someone else talking either on the phone or in meetings. These doodles began on one sheet of paper that was taped off to create the individual drawings. The materials and compositions reflect the intuitive and geometric aspects of previous works on paper.

Marilyn Nilsson Grabinsky, MFA

mingfineart.com